We know the Saint's prayers are at work, God bless you and yours. A trip that normally takes seven hours today from Lusaka to Kitwe took just under twelve hours due to the RTSA (Road Safety traffic enforcement) equivalent to our DOT back in the states. They are quite strict , understandably so. The pulled our bus aside and held h for over 3 1/2 hours delaying our journey arrived in Kitwe at 6:50 pm. Quite the journey. We will keep you and the saints back home in our prayers. God Bless!!!

We have been notified by a parent the Charter Bus will be starting off at 4:30 am instead of 5:00 from Ndola. We are in Kitwe about forty-five minutes away. We may be heading into another day of excitement tomorrow. As one heads on the bad roads there has been two buses that have had to be towed to get some of the difficult roads. We will keep you updated and in our prayers. Prayerfully the rain! will not be to bad (It is in the heart of rainy season) There are a lot of muddy roads to transverse. Thanks for your prayers .

The Lord is gracious full of mercy. We are thankful for the Lord's continued provision, we are thankful that our needs have been continually met. We are thankful for your prayers and support.

The roads were a bit of a challenge under construction today, Appreciate your prayer for a safe trip that might have it's challenges tomorrow. Especially if it rains the excitement may not be over.
