IF NOT NOW, WHEN?

FAITHFULNESS IN A CRITICAL HOUR

Every generation of believers faces moments that test conviction, courage, and perseverance. History shows us that faith is rarely lived out in calm waters. It is most often proven in seasons of uncertainty—when standing firm requires resolve rather than comfort.

We are living in such a moment.

Many Christians sense that something has shifted in our nation. Cultural pressures are increasing. Biblical truth is no longer assumed. The freedom to live out one's faith openly is being questioned in ways that were unthinkable just a few decades ago. It is understandable that some feel weary, discouraged, or tempted to withdraw.

But Scripture reminds us that God never places His people in a generation by accident.

“And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?” (Esther 4:14)

God's call has never been for His people to retreat when times grow difficult. He calls us to faithfulness—not because the hour is easy, but because it is necessary. Obedience does not depend on favorable conditions. It depends on trust.

The Bible is clear that the days before Christ's return will not be marked by widespread spiritual ease. “Because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.” (Matthew 24:12–13)

Endurance is not passive. It is active faith—choosing to stand, to speak truth with grace, to obey God even when obedience carries a cost.

This is why the work of strengthening and protecting the Church matters so deeply right now. Churches, schools, ministries, and families are not asking for special treatment. They are asking for the freedom to continue doing what God has called them to do—to preach the Gospel, disciple believers, serve communities, and live according to Biblical conviction.

Scripture calls believers to steadfastness in every season: “Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.” (1 Corinthians 15:58)

Faithfulness is rarely flashy. It is often unseen. It is choosing obedience one decision at a time—one prayer, one conversation, one stand for truth—trusting that God is at work even when results are not immediately visible.

We may not know how this chapter of history will fully unfold. But we do know this: God honors obedience. He strengthens those who trust Him. And He has never failed His people.

“And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.” (Galatians 6:9)

So the question before us is not whether the task is difficult. It is. The question is whether we will remain faithful in the hour God has given us.

If not now, when?

THE CHURCH IS STILL GOD'S PLAN

In times of cultural uncertainty, it can be tempting to believe that the Church has lost its influence or relevance. Scripture tells a very different story.

The Church was never meant to rise or fall with public opinion. It was established by Christ Himself, and it remains central to God's work in the world today. Jesus declared, "Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Matthew 16:18)

As Dr. David Gibbs, Jr. has often reminded pastors and believers alike, "The greatest hope for America is the local church."

That hope is not found in political power or cultural approval, but in faithful churches preaching the Word of God, discipling believers, and serving their communities. The early Church grew amid opposition, persecution, and misunderstanding—yet the Gospel spread, and truth endured.

The Church remains God's chosen instrument for proclaiming truth, making disciples, and shining light in a dark world. Laws may change. Cultures may shift. But God's purpose for His Church does not.

This is why Christian Law Association exists—to stand alongside churches and help protect their freedom to preach, teach, gather, and serve without fear or confusion. Every day, CLA answers questions, provides counsel, and defends churches so they can remain focused on ministry rather than legal burdens.

"The counsel of the LORD standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations." (Psalm 33:11)

The Church is not outdated. It is ordained. And God is still at work through it today.

"...upon this rock I will build my church..."

GOD HAS NOT ABANDONED THIS GENERATION

It is easy to look at the challenges of our time and wonder whether this generation has strayed too far for God to work. Scripture offers reassurance: God has never abandoned His people—and He has not abandoned this generation.

Throughout history, God has worked powerfully in seasons that appeared spiritually bleak. When His people felt overwhelmed, discouraged, or surrounded by opposition, God remained faithful. "For the Lord will not cast off for ever: But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies." (Lamentations 3:31–32)

Every generation faces its own test of faithfulness. God calls His people not to despair, but to trust Him, obey His Word, and walk humbly before Him. He is still drawing hearts, still answering prayer, and still strengthening those who seek Him.

"The LORD is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him." (Lamentations 3:25)

God's work is not finished. His mercy has not expired. And His truth has not lost its power. This generation is not forgotten—it is called.

Faithfulness today matters more than ever. And God remains with those who choose to trust Him.

PROTECTING FREE SPEECH

Remember that government agencies must treat speech equally, no matter what the speaker is expressing. Consider these examples below.

- Advertising – A city bus cannot refuse ad space to Christian organizations—even for the cause of “keeping the peace” due to “varying opinions.”
- Student Presentations – If a public school teacher assigns a speech about a topic important to students, a student may talk about Biblical principles or controversial political issues.

- Meeting Space – Many public libraries offer room reservation space to patrons, and a group cannot be refused simply because they are religious.

In many cases, people truly don't know the law and, in our increasingly secular culture, wrongly assume that all religious speech is forbidden. In other cases, people with an anti-Christian bias try to bully Christian groups. CLA continues to be on the forefront of organizations that protect religious speech. LEGAL TIP #1

PUT IT IN WRITING

Churches and ministries often rely on trust and long-standing relationships—and rightly so. However, when it comes to policies, agreements, and expectations, clear written documentation can prevent confusion and conflict in the future.

Board-approved bylaws, facility-use agreements, employment policies, and volunteer guidelines help protect both the ministry and the individuals serving within it. Taking time now to ensure documents are current and clearly written can prevent significant difficulty down the road.

“Let all things be done decently and in order.” (1 Corinthians 14:40)

LEGAL TIP #2

KNOW THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN EMPLOYEES AND VOLUNTEERS

Many ministries rely heavily on volunteers, but misclassifying workers—even unintentionally—can create legal complications. Compensation, scheduling expectations, and job duties matter when determining classification.

Regularly reviewing roles and responsibilities can help ensure compliance while preserving flexibility for ministry. Making certain that employee and volunteer classifications are correctly used is much simpler than resolution once the legality of a classification is under scrutiny.

“Provide things honest in the sight of all men.” (Romans 12:17)

LEGAL TIP #3

ADDRESS ISSUES EARLY, NOT AFTER THEY ESCALATE

Small legal questions often grow into larger problems when left unaddressed. Zoning concerns, neighbor complaints, internal disputes, or regulatory inquiries should be handled promptly and carefully.

Early communication and informed response can often resolve matters quietly and peacefully. Churches and ministries are strongest when leaders seek counsel before situations become urgent.

“Where no counsel is, the people fall: but in the multitude of counsellors there is safety.” (Proverbs 11:14)
