

The Saltzmans Missionaries to Japan

June Update

We are thankful that it is finally summer time here in Teshio! The good weather brings community activities and leisurely walks. It not only helps our personal health, but also allows Cassian get his energy out. Additionally this has opened doors to meet more people in town. We had quite a busy month, starting with attending Sports Day at the local elementary school, each school has a day full of different competitions and games. It was nice to be able to cheer on the kids that we have met and further grow our relationship with other parents, some of which have even come to church recently! Community events has been a great form of outreach and getting to know others. The Lord continues to bless with new connections. For Father's Day, the church held an event of a special service then a meal after. The Lord answered our prayers in preparation to the special Sunday, which was having a family that we had recently met attend the service. Aly had met the wife, who has a baby close to Cassian's age, and she had been getting to know her by having play dates with the babies and taking walks together.

June Update

On Father's Day, the whole family came to church, so that gave me the opportunity to meet and get connect with the husband. They let us know they enjoyed their time, and would love to come to any event that we have at the church. Pray for us as we continue to build that relationship, and pray that the Lord turns their interest in church events into a true interest in Him. We had some personal business this month as well; We have been working on getting our Japanese drivers licenses. After traveling to Asahikawa, a town that is 3 hours away from us, and back a couple of times, We have both passed our written portion of the drivers license process. Now, we look towards the end of July to attempt the driving portion. We ask for much prayer, as the driving test is incredibly strict, and we must do it in full Japanese. We do have until September before our international licenses expire, so we will have a couple attempts before that time if needed. Towards the end of June, we decided to get Aly's wisdom teeth removed. It was a much different process than what we expected, but with the Lord's grace He provided safety through the procedure, and gave grace to me while I stayed home taking care of Cassian during the 3 day hospital visit that was also in Asahikawa. She is fully recovered, and we are both thankful to be taking a short break from so much travel back and forth to the city. We are thankful for your prayers as we move through the rest of our busy summer here. We are excited to share the work that the Lord continues to do here.
